Expert witness charges Corps failed to properly mark hole

By WAYNE DUCOMB JR.
A former U.S. Army Corps of Engineers safety expert testified Wednesday morning the government agency initially did not properly mark the deep hole area after completing dredging operations offshore from Waveland.

Luther Fleming, now an industrial safety consultant of Huntsville, Ala., stated, "A proper type of warning system would be a string of buoys placed around the hole proper to a person swimming would see a buoy before entering deep water."

String around the hole with a buoy, the buoys would be highly visible and warning signs could be placed on the markers, Fleming said.

The safety consultant's testimony was heard in the third day of a Biloxi Federal Court action resulting from some $1 million in damages claimed from the federal government by the survivors of eight deep hole victims.

The federal government brought Hancock County into the case as a third party defendant, charging the local government with responsibility for the deaths.

Walter Cox of Diamondhead, a defending Hancock County attorney, says testimony by witnesses will attempt to prove the local government was not responsible for the deaths.

James Lewis of Washington, D.C., a U.S. Department of Justice attorney, is also attempting to prove the drownings did not even occur within the deep hole.

Local officials report some 25 people have drowned in the hole since 1968 when a Corps dredging project apparently created the massive underwater crater located about 1,500 feet offshore from Buccaneer State Park and Gulfside Methodist Assembly Center.

The lawsuits were filed some two years ago in U.S. District Court for the Southern District of Mississippi in Biloxi by survivors of deep hole victims number 17 through 24.

Since all local judges recused themselves from the action due to conflicting interests, Judge Daniel Thomas of Mobile is hearing the cases which have been combined into one trial.

The trial was expected to last at least two weeks, but is now expected to end this afternoon, Thomas repeatedly stops attorneys from duplicating questions already answered, presenting numerous witness accounts of a single event and utilizing circular questioning techniques.

Thomas also repeatedly halts attorney witness examinations in order to clarify facts with his own questions.

Under such questioning by Thomas, Fleming said, no type of warning structure could withstand a hurricane, but reported signs are necessary around the entire perimeter of the hole.

Regarding a large sign placed on the nearby beach by the City of Waveland warning swimmers of the deadly hole offshore, Fleming stated, "I don't know what good a sign on the beach would do... it might be helpful."

The safety expert reported the signs placed offshore near the hole by the Corps after the dredging operation was completed were "inadequate."

He noted contract specifications prepared by the Corps call for 22-foot long posts placed at 500-foot intervals with nine feet extending above the water where signs reading "deep water to south" were placed facing the beach

Bay Council questions its former approval of engineering firm

By FRANK MACEY
The Bay St. Louis City Council Tuesday questioned a contract it had approved at a previous meeting allowing Lewis Eaton Partnership engineers from Jackson to apply for an estimated $12 million for the city.

The funding will be used to finance paving of all unpaved city streets and supply gas, water, and sewer to areas where there is none.

In the previous meeting the council agreed to pay the engineering firm $1,500 to submit an application to the Farmers Home Administration to secure funding for the project.

This action came after Edwin Lewis of the Lewis Eaton firm gave an oral presentation explaining what the firm would do for the $1,500 fee.

The council at that time also approved naming the engineering firm as sole engineering firm to be contracted if the funds were obtained.

Councilman James Thriftley, who voted against the Lewis Eaton proposal at the last meeting, cautioned the board Tuesday to look more closely into the matter before signing a written proposal which could be considered a contract.

A written proposal from the engineering firm presented to the council Tuesday was not as specific as the verbal proposal presented by Lewis in the previous meeting, council members agreed.

The proposal is kind of vague and not really specific in telling us what they are going to do, Thriftley said.

He stated that the council should be getting more information before making a decision on the proposal.

Any decision on the proposal should be made after a public hearing, Thriftley said, and after the council has received more information on the proposal.

Thriftley also questioned naming the contract if the funding is obtained.

Thriftley said the council might find the funding is available and then find the city could not afford to implement the project.

He estimated the city would have to pay the Lewis Eaton firm 50 percent of the contracted fee regardless of whether the project was implemented.

Normal engineering fees are some 10 percent of the project, he stated. The city would be obligated to pay the engineering firm some $200,000 after the engineering firm completed plans and specifications for the job.

Councilman Sheldon Seuzeneau asked the council should accept naming the contract.

"We went through this last meeting," Thriftley said.

"If they get the money for us then I believe they should get the contract," he said, and motioned the council approve the contract naming the council to hiring the engineering firm.

Councilman Gene Taylor, who voted against the proposal with Thriftley last meeting, stated, "I would like to remind the council that there is only one engineering firm we know of which can produce an answerable filter system, yet we went out of our way not to have that firm named as the only firm on record."

Councilman Harry Faye moved the council table the proposal and have the mayor meet with the engineering firm to resolve the problem.

That motion was approved.

Also during the Tuesday meeting Bay St. Louis Mayor Larry Bennett, who was not present, sent a notice to the council stating his decision to veto a beach front building ordinance approved by the council at their last meeting.

The letter stated, "I have been advised that should I allow Ordinance No. 260 to become effective that legal action would be taken against the city."

"I feel that it is my duty as well as the council's duty to avoid any and all legal actions that could effect the City of Bay St. Louis, Miss.," he stated.

The ordinance, passed by the council Sept. 8, 1979, would allow construction of a 12 MILLION—Page 2A

Complaint filed against patrolman

By FRANK MACEY
The Hancock County Sheriff's Department Wednesday confirmed reports a complaint has been filed against a Bay St. Louis Police officer by owners of a local business.

Sheila Mason Peterson said she had talked with James and Collette Ladner, owners of the Beach Palace on Beach Boulevard, about a complaint they filed at a municipal court.

He said the couple planned to file an affidavit seeking the arrest of the Bay Officer.

The sheriff said the officer took the couple to jail with Justice Court Judge John Chevis concerning that matter. Chevis said Wednesday he is "in certainty to what charge if any, could be filed as he is waiting for the couple to John Genin, county prosecutor.

Genin, who spoke to the couple Tuesday, said he has not yet had an opportunity to review a police report on a recent incident which prompted the complaint or discuss the matter with the Ladners to determine if probable cause exists for a warrant to be issued.

He stated he plans to talk with the Ladners Thursday after reviewing the police report.

Collette Ladner said the complaint came from an alleged incident at their business Friday at approximately 11:15 p.m.

Bruce DeBourgh, 21, of 44 Polk City Street in Bay St. Louis, was arrested by the Bay Police Department and held in the Bay County Jail.

REAL VIEWS ON REAL ESTATE

EXAMINE NEIGHBORHOOD BEFORE YOU BUY

QUESTION: My husband has received a job promotion and we will be moving to a large city. What should we look for when buying a house so we don't buy in the wrong neighborhood? G. J. McComb

ANSWER: Dear G. J.: As noted in your question, a purchaser should not restrict research and investigation just to the house.

Consideration should be given to the neighborhood, the home, and to the improvements to and on the site including the house.

A real estate broker or salesperson can give you useful advice as to important factors and features which should be studied before a purchase is made.

A purchaser should check the following points in the analysis of the neighborhood:

Location of the neighborhood. How accessible is it from shopping, schools, churches, place of work and other facilities important to the home purchaser?

Accessibility of the neighborhood. How easy is it to reach major arteries, is public transportation available?

Design of the neighborhood. What is the physical layout of the streets? Curved streets are preferable to straight grid design streets for residences with children since such design slows traffic down. Is there adequate off-street parking? Are there any neighborhood parks?

Condition of the neighborhood. Is the neighborhood clean, and do neighbors take pride in maintaining their houses? How old are the buildings?

Future trend of the neighborhood. How old are the houses? Check the number of "for sale" signs, abandoned houses, percentage of owner occupied houses. If the neighborhood is old, is there any sign of rehabilitation or restoration activity?

Services and costs of utilities. Are all utilities provided? Are they public or private? What are the costs? Is there adequate police and fire protection? What is the crime rate? What are the fire insurance ratings? Is there a hospital nearby? Are storm drains and fire hydrants nearby? What are the property taxes?

Quality of schools. Where are your children likely to go to school and what is the reputation of these schools? Reputation of the neighborhood and type of neighborhood. Is there an abnormal turnover of people in the neighborhood?

Existing nuisances and protection from other nuisances. How close are industrial and other potentially polluting uses? How is the neighborhood zoned? Are building, housing and health codes being enforced?

For answers to your questions, write Dr. Daniel J. Fox, Box 200, University, Ill. 60180.

Decision on Neutron Bomb Makes Sense for America

President Reagan's decision to build neutron bombs and stockpile them in the United States will increase the military power in Western Europe, and eliminate the military advantage the Soviet Union now holds in that part of the world.

At present, 19,000 Soviet tanks are massed near the West German border, ready to move at any moment to overrun all of Western Europe. They outnumber American tanks three to one and outclass them technologically much more than that.

Without the neutron bomb, we have no practical means of countering a Soviet invasion of Western Europe. We could use our tanks and other conventional weapons but would be defeated in a matter of days.

We could use nuclear weapons against advancing Soviet forces. But this would devastate most of West Germany and cause the indiscriminate killing of millions of European civilians from radioactive fallout landing hundreds of miles away.

Or we could launch a nuclear attack against the Soviet Union. The Joint Chiefs of Staff say that would result in the loss of 20 million Soviet lives. But they also say the Soviet nuclear counterattack against us would kill 150 million Americans.

The neutron bomb will give us a new and much more favorable alternative. It kills in a very limited area and will allow our forces to target invading tanks and troops without endangering nearby civilians and without triggering a nuclear war.

President Reagan's action will restore the balance of power in Western Europe and eliminate the military advantage the Soviet Union now holds there.

The latest Soviet line is that all peace-loving people would condemn production of the neutron bomb because it is a new step toward a nuclear war and devastation.

The truth is just the opposite. The neutron bomb is likely to discourage war by restoring the balance of power in Western Europe. It will discourage a Soviet invasion by giving America a limited but highly effective means of responding to such an invasion. The neutron bomb permits thousands of tanks to be destroyed in the field without killing the driver or destroying land or property or endangering the lives of nearby civilians. Since the Soviets know this too, the neutron bomb will insure the safety of Western Europe. At least until the next technological innovation.

Soviet propaganda efforts have already succeeded in getting most of our Western European allies to oppose placing neutron bombs on their territory. But that really doesn't matter much. President Reagan and the Soviets are well aware that neutron bombs stockpiled in America can be in Europe within eight hours after an invasion. That's soon enough to do their job.

For Americans, the neutron bomb offers another advantage. It is far cheaper and more effective than sending thousands of new tanks and tens of thousands of American soldiers to Western Europe as a deterrent force.

SPECIAL REPORT

Interest Rate Crisis

The interest rate situation is a very serious concern to the Congress as more and more businesses and families throughout the nation are being adversely affected.

It is a most urgent economic problem. While the Congress has been achieving in bringing spending by the federal government under control, continued high interest rates may undermine the economic recovery program of the President.

It has been the hope that reductions in federal spending and progress toward a balanced budget and lower deficits would reduce the demands for credit and would, therefore, bring about a corresponding reduction in the rates of interest charged by banks and other lending institutions.

In spite of some downward movement, the rates are still very high. There is a spreading perception that Wall Street bankers and big city businessmen are conspiring to manipulate the economic recovery program work.

Some in Congress are talking about imposing credit control. There is also some sentiment here for a national moratorium on interest rates.

I do not want to see the Congress take hasty or ill-considered action that might make matters worse instead of better. But something must be done.

There must be some real reduction in rates soon or we will have a complex recession on our hands.

With that in mind, I have joined Senator Stennis in sponsoring a bill to create a National Commission on Interest Rates.

The Commission would be directed to conduct a thorough but prompt review of the interest rate situation and report to the President its recommendations for bringing interest rates down to

of the level of the economy. I would like to see a better spirit of cooperation between financial institutions. The help restores a more reasonable level of interest rates. Lower interest rates are a must if we are to stabilize our economy and restore the economic health and vitality which America needs.

If this can be done without radical far-reaching measures by Congress and the Executive Branch, it would be to everyone's benefit.

Health Tip

American Medical Association

Exercise is vital to weight loss

Overeating is the major cause of overweight, but physical inactivity contributes greatly to the problem.

The American Medical Association's popular pamphlet, "The Healthy Approach to Slimming," points in word picture of an overweight, sedentary young woman who has discovered that she will remain overweight on a diet of only 1,600 calories.

It is not enough to eat less. One must also exercise.

A major part of her problem is low energy expenditure. To actually lose weight and keep it off, more exercise is essential, not only to lose pounds but also for improved vitality and physical fitness.

There is a growing awareness that a sedentary way of life can contribute to degenerative diseases of the arteries and to obesity and its potential complications, most notably, diabetes. There is a growing preference for a healthy, physically fit appearance. Emphasis is on condition. Body, skin and hair that are in good condition are widely regarded as necessary for good looks.

You may feel too busy to get started on a physical fitness program, but it's probably lack of exercise that makes you feel that way. You may think of yourself as active or energetic because you are always busy—too busy to take time out for vigorous exercise. Some of the busiest people in the world have found time for jogging, tennis or morning calisthenics. So can you.

If you are over 30 or are unaccustomed to vigorous exercise, consult with your physician before starting a program.

Moderate speed walking or bicycling burns 200 to 220 calories an hour. Golf and bowling, along with heavy housework and brick walking, consume 250 to 300 calories each hour. Volleyball, skating, jogging, dancing, tennis and moderate swimming expend 350 to 400 calories an hour. Strenuous competitive sports such as running, fast swimming and rowing burn up 600 or more calories for each hour of participation.

A MATTER OF CONFIDENCE

Confidence is building that our country's new economic recovery program will succeed once all of its features take effect.

The active and vocal support of the American people helped such provisions as tax rate cuts and budget cuts become key components. Many segments of our society sensed the urgency of action to stabilize the economy.

Working from some poorer accounts over the past few weeks, you think Wall Street's movers and shakers are having second thoughts about the economic recovery program.

But let's face it, though the program is making progress, it is not yet a success story. The program is making progress, it is not yet a success story.

Preoccupation with arms race obscures basic American values

The United States must not lose sight of its basic values in the arms race, said a prominent American scholar, who said the United States must not lose sight of its basic values in the arms race.

Giving the first talk in a UNO-sponsored lecture series on the Cold War, McGovern said the United States must not lose sight of its basic values in the arms race.

He noted that additional nuclear expenditures have largely been wasted ever since the U.S. and the Soviet Union, "about 20 years ago," achieved the capacity to absorb a first strike and still retaliate with enough explosive power to destroy the attacker.

"Nothing," said McGovern, "has weakened American power in the world as much as the waste of billions of dollars in military expenditures."

McGovern charged that the MX missile and other new military devices would add "to the waste and inefficiency of the arms race and that military expenditures could be reduced by millions without weakening the armed forces."

"We have wandered so far from the ideas that inspired the American Revolution," he said, "that we have lost sight of the basic values of the American people."

For McGovern, the basic values of the American people are freedom, justice, and the pursuit of happiness. He said these values are the foundation of the American way of life.

McGovern, who has joined the UNO faculty as visiting professor of history for the 1973-74 school year, said that after World War II the U.S. began to lose its sense of direction and its resources in a "gigantic, globe-circling arms race."

He said the U.S. has lost sight of its basic values in the arms race. He said the U.S. has lost sight of its basic values in the arms race.

The results of the external preoccupation with war, he said, have led to domestic neglect and a lower quality of life through chronic inflation, declining production, neglect of crucial national needs such as energy, development, and transportation, as well as a political credibility gap and loss of self-esteem.

McGovern said the solution to the nation's ills lies in "the tried and tested values" that endured here for 150 years prior to the second world war.

YOUR RICH UNCLE HAS A PRESENT FOR YOU.

Up to $2,000 in tax-free interest—with a Hancock Bank All Savers Certificate.

Uncle Sam usually does a lot of taking at income tax time. But here's how you can make him do a little giving.

Just get an All Savers Certificate from Hancock Bank.

Effective October 1st, this new kind of one-year certificate pays 7 1/2% of the year's maturity on 52 week U.S. Treasury bills at the latest monthly auction. It only takes a small investment of $500.

And here's Uncle Sam's present to you.

The first $1,000 you earn is tax-free.

That's right. You can earn up to $2,000 in tax-free interest.

That lets you keep just as much money as if you were earning a much higher interest rate—one that you had to pay taxes on.

Here's an example.

Effective October 1st and 2nd, the All Savers Certificate rate is 12 1/2%. A new rate will be effective October 6th. For a couple making $25,000 between them, that's the equivalent of a certificate paying 17 1/2% based on the 1982 tax table. That's $2,000 in tax-free interest.

All Savers Certificates are offered to only one group.

They're for young people.

That's right. Young people.

But one thing's for sure. If you pay taxes at all, you're going to reap a higher interest rate with an All Savers Certificate.

In fact, you could do so well that you may want to consider converting your Hancock Bank 6-month Money Market Certificate to an All Savers Certificate.

You can do it without penalty.

GENERAL STEPS TO BE TAKEN

BEFORE A CATASTROPHE

1. Keep a supply of non-perishable foods and an emergency water supply have essential drugs and first-aid kit available in your medicine chest.
2. Alert police and fire departments to special conditions, such as an invalid who might require emergency evacuation.
3. Know where and how to shut off gas, electricity, and water and how to board up vulnerable places around the house, such as doors and windows.
4. Keep fresh batteries available for transistor radios and flashlights and an extra supply of fuel for portable grills and stoves.
5. Plan a family relocation strategy and keep tuned to the news on radio and TV so you will know when to take action should evacuation become imperative.
6. Prepare an inventory list of personal valuables, household furnishings, and equipment so you can itemize loss or damaged property.
7. Make sure that your insurance coverage has been kept current with the rising values of building and furnishings and that it is adequate to protect you from financial loss if your home is destroyed.
8. Keep your insurance policy in a safe place where it can be easily retrieved after a disaster. You may wish to keep with it a quick reference list containing your agent's telephone number, all your policy numbers and the respective insurance companies names.

Good News Gossip

By JOE PILET

We are most fortunate to have guidance in plant culture and identification from Dr. David W. Bierhorst, who is now a resident of Picayune.

Dr. Bierhorst served as professor of botany at Cornell University for about 15 years and at the University of Massachusetts for 12 years.

As past-president of the American Fern Society, he filled us in on information about the horsetail fern, and the redbird cactus.

The horsetail fern is botanically called "Equisetum" and is a rush-like herb with hollow jointed stems. Its spores are borne on cone-like spikes, and this plant is the only survivor of a once large fossil group.

It predates the dinosaurs. The sand crystals in the stems make this plant useful as a scoring agent.

Dr. Bierhorst tells us meticulous musicians use this for polishing their instrument reeds. (It is used also to scour algae from the bird baths).

Is the horsetail fern in reality a fern? The New Gardening Encyclopedia published by Wise and Company describes it as "a member of the fern family." Dr. Bierhorst adds, "I am ready to debate that. So, when is a fern not a fern? The answer, obviously, is 'when it's a horsetail'."

A favorite potted plant in this area is the "redbird cactus." A tropical American species, this attractive plant has long, thin leaves of light green, turning toward the tips and pink-tinted.

It resembles tiny redbirds, incidentally, the redbird cactus is not a cactus—it's a lily!

Have you noticed the improvements at our Hancock County Courthouse? There are several small selected large plants in the foyer adding just the right note of serene dignity. The big pole has also been newly painted!

Well, beginning grass less than this month—and raking leaves more frequently. Those leaves are worth saving as they make valuable compost. The you have never considered a compost heap you might try using a layer of leaves as mulch on your garden.

Dampening the bed frequently and give the compost a turning now and then to hasten the decaying process. If you are also very much interested in protein plants, you might try using a layer of leaves as mulch on your garden.

These old-fashioned ways of doing things are great for the environment. They are great for the environment.

Rocks, Bearcats in 'pivotal' game

By Wayne Dugan

The St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chow team will play a pivotal game in the Deep South Conference on Friday night when they meet the Pearl River Central Hawks for their first Friday night game. The game is being played at the Rock-A-Chow stadium in an intraconference contest at 7:30 p.m. in Bay St. Louis.

Long Beach stands at 2-1 on the season, having won 3-0 over the Ocean Springs Warriors, 14-12 against the Jacksonville Jaguars and 11-14 against the always tough Gulfville Warriors. Ocean Springs defeated the Bearcats last week 27-12.

St. Stanislaus is 1-1 overall and in Deep South Conference play. They played a hard-fought game last week against the Jacksonville Jaguars, 14-12.

The key to the game could very well center on how well the Rocks can defend the pass. Long Beach has 2 accurate quarterbacks and good tall receivers, whereas St. Stanislaus secondary is of average height. The two teams appear to be evenly matched in all other areas.

With a week off, the Rocks have had ample time to mend all their bumps and bruises from the Pearl River Central game as well as extra time to prepare for the Bearcats.

"We know what Long Beach has done so far this season," Weems stated. "We've studied the game film from all 3 of their contests and scouted them last week against Ocean Springs. Although they are coming from a different area, their secondary is always right around the football," the Rock-A-Chow coach explained.

Sean Logan, suffering from bruised back muscles, is listed as a probable starter and comes back after a bye week. Defensive tackle, Charlie Richards, both under the weather, will probably be asked to play by game time. The Weems fields heavily the same starting lineup against the Bearcats that he's used in the two previous games.

Mike Prendergast and Pat Leach will be the co-captains for the contest Friday night, the Rocks first home game of the year.

Ticket prices are $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for students. Game time is 7:30 p.m. as the Rocks try to make it 3-0 in row.

Bay ready for Bulldogs

By Brent Macey

The Bay High Tiger football team will be looking for its third win this Friday against the Vancleave Bulldogs in their turf.

"We really need this game to stay up there in the conference," Smith said. "If we lose this game, we'll be going over there ready to win."

Vancleave entered its first conference game with a 2-0 record. Bay High has a 2-1 record in conference games. Last week the Tigers were defeated by the Pearl River Central Blue Devils in a 27-12 loss.

Smith said the number of turnovers that Bay defense has made in its first two games is a concern. "We've made too many turnovers," Smith said. "We need to be better in that area."

Smith said the Tigers are looking for a positive game against the Bulldogs this week. "We need to win this game," Smith said. "We need to be better in that area."

Pass coach building defensive strength to meet Hawk attack

By Wayne Dugan Jr.

Coach Bob Lumpkin, head coach of the Pass Christian High School football team, feels defensive strength is a prime ingredient of his game plan to defeat the Hancock North Central High School Hawks Friday night.

Kickoff time will be at 7:30 p.m. in Pirate Stadium on North Street just east of Pass Christian Elementary School.

The rivalry contest Friday night promises to be a hard-fighting game. Although Pass Christian has a 1-2 record so far this year, the team entered its first 1981 victory Friday against a powerhouse team, the d'Iberville High School Warriors.

North Central has an impressive 2-1 record so this year and will be a formidable adversary to the victory-hungry Pirates. The Hawks have only lost their season opener against St. Stanislaus High School.

Lumpkin says, "We will have to stop them defensively and also eliminate our offensive mistakes."

"It's going to be another close one this week. Hancock's got a fine football team and moves the ball real well," the head coach states.

Lumpkin labels several North Central players as "dangerous" and particularly points out 220-pound fullback, Mark Schall, and fullback, Lydell Curry, as threatening foes of the Pirates defense.

"Curry is one of the best sophomore running backs I've ever seen. He can score from anywhere on the field," the Pass coach says.

"We will have to play a great defense and will have to move the ball ourselves. It's going to be a pretty good rivalry game," Lumpkin states.

Head Coach Irvin Favre is doing a great job of coaching the North Central team," Lumpkin adds.

Regarding his own team's strength, Lumpkin says his team is "pretty healthy" after the tough contest against the Warriors and notes only a few of his players have "some aching injuries."

"I think we have a good chance of winning this game," Lumpkin says. "We need to be better in that area."

Yarborough, Karl take boxing victories

Bay-Kila-Waveland Boxing Club stalwart Chuck Karl took a unanimous decision over Robert Havolint of Hancock Boxing Club after three one-minute rounds in a Kemmer, La., Recreation Department event Saturday.

Karl got the nod from judges in spite of a three-point penalty he incurred for slipping.

Yarborough of BK-W took a popular decision to his bout with Buck Cowell of Egan, La.

Yarborough kept his opponent in trouble from the first round, according to BK-W officials. Yarborough's opponent, Havolint, was a former champion of BK-W.

SOLAR FACTS

by Robert E. Lewis

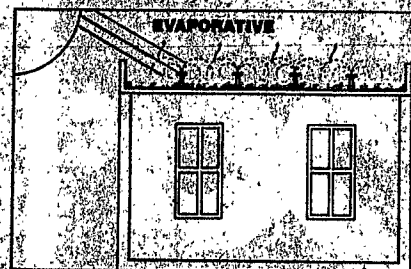

PASSIVE SOLAR COOLING

While most people think of passive solar energy as a way to heat a building, it can also be used to cool a building. Simply stated, passive cooling systems reduce the heat within a building by drawing that heat away to a cooler object. These cooler objects—termed "energy sinks"—are often the air ground or water.

As with passive heating, passive cooling systems require a minimal amount of mechanical equipment or outside energy sources to operate efficiently. In other words, the design of the building is used to help produce a cooling effect.

Most passive cooling systems are designed to work in one or two basic summertime climates—the hot-and-dry climate or the hot-and-humid climate. Hot-and-dry summer climates are characterized by relatively high daytime temperatures and cool nights. In hot-and-dry summer climates, passive cooling can be achieved by evaporation, by radiating heat into the cool night sky or by circulating cool night air through the building.

By comparison, hot-and-humid summer climates are characterized by relatively high temperatures at all times. Since there is very little temperature fluctuation during a 24-hour period, and because there is often constant high humidity, other approaches to passive cooling should be considered. Common passive solutions in these climate areas include ground cooling and desiccant cooling (dehumidification). Increased air circulation can also have a cooling effect in these climates.

Passive cooling systems for both basic types of summer climates will be discussed in future columns.

Regardless of the type of passive cooling system used, the first priority should be to minimize unwanted heat gain through basic conservation methods.

For example, a passive cooling system will be far more effective if a home is properly insulated (caulking, weatherstripping, storm windows, etc.) and efforts have been made to shade the building—especially the glass areas—from the direct rays of the sun. Such shading can be achieved through use of awnings and shutters and proper planting of trees and shrubs.

This image shows a vertical strip of a document page. The background is dark and textured, possibly representing a book cover or endpaper. A prominent, lighter, wavy, scalloped edge runs vertically down the left side of the strip. The texture is grainy and uneven, with some areas appearing more reflective than others. The overall appearance is that of a high-contrast, black-and-white scan of a physical object.

Stanislaus OLA announce Merit Semifinalists

Principals of St. Stanislaus High School in Bay St. Louis report three seniors at the school have been named National Merit Semifinalists for the 1983 school year.

These students are John Gallagher, Hunt Vegas and Tommy Vance.

Merit semifinalists are among the highest scorers in each state on the 1981 Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test and the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test, which was administered to over one million students throughout the United States.

The semifinalists represent the top one-half of one percent of those taking the test on a nationwide basis, and they become eligible to be named as National Merit Finalists.

These finalists will be announced in April, 1982.

Our Lady's Academy officials also in Bay St. Louis report a student from that school has been named a merit semifinalist.

Carolyn Rene Comeaux is the 16-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll J. Comeaux of the Mollere Drive in Waveland.

A member of the senior class, she is an alpha honor roll student and a member of the National Honor Society.

She is serving as president of the Alpha Theta Math Honor Society and is a member of Who's Who Among American High School Students.

Comeaux is a varsity cheerleader for Saint Stanislaus and is feature page editor of her school newspaper.

She is a member of Our Lady's Drama Club and attends St. Clare's Catholic Church in Bay St. Louis. She has one brother who presently attends St. Stanislaus, another sister who graduated from OLA and a younger sister who also attends the Academy.

John Gallagher, the son of Mr. and Mrs. George Gallagher of Baton Rouge, La., is in his sixth year at St. Stanislaus.

He is a member of the National Honor Society and an Alpha Honor Roll student. Gallagher was editor of the school's yearbook in his junior year. He has been a class officer and secretary of the student council, and was a counselor at Camp Stanislaus for three years.

Hunt Vegas is in his sixth year at SSC and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Vegas of Bay St. Louis.

He is a member of the National Honor Society, the Spanish Honor Society, the Prep Quiz Bowl Team and the Debate Team at the school.

Vegas represented the school at Mississippi Boy's State this past summer, and as a junior he placed second state wide at the Mississippi Math and Science Tournament.

He is an Alpha Honor Roll student and a member of the National Honor Society and the French Honor Society.

Vance is also a member of the school band, the Drama Club, and Project Do (a service organization at SSC).

He represented St. Stanislaus at Mississippi Boy's State during the summer of his junior year.

SEMIFINALISTS—Meeting at the St. Stanislaus High School resource center in Bay St. Louis recently are, from left, seniors Tommy Vance and Hunt Vegas, both of Bay St. Louis; and John Gallagher of Baton Rouge, La., all SSC students and Carrie Comeaux of Waveland, of Our Lady's Academy in Bay St. Louis. The students have been named National Merit Semifinalists resulting from their high scores in preparatory college entrance examinations. (Staff photo by Wayne Ducommun Jr.)

CANCER Answer line

American Cancer Society

A regular feature prepared by the American Cancer Society to help save your life from cancer.

Question: My husband has been told he has to have a colostomy. What does this mean?

ANSWERline: When portions of the colon or rectum are surgically removed because of cancer or other disease and the two ends of the small intestine are joined together, an opening must be made in the abdominal wall through which bodily wastes will be eliminated. This procedure is called a colostomy. The opening is called a stoma. The colostomy may be either temporary or permanent. In the latter case, the patient, after being helped to adjust to some initial problems, can lead an otherwise normal, fully active life. There are many Americans in every walk of life—business people, homemakers, teachers, etc.

who have colostomies and lead active lives. To help colostomy patients adjust, the American Cancer Society through its Units and divisions, supports a voluntary visitation program. Someone who has had a colostomy works with a new colostomy patient with the approval of the physician to help him adjust to his new life. Question: What is the difference between "early" and "late" cancer?

ANSWERline: There is none. Both terms describe a simple, inexpensive method of testing the feces for blood. Guaiac is a substance derived from a tree of the West Indies which is used on the laboratory slides in the test. Hemocult means hidden blood. This test is a "do-it-yourself" one done at home. It involves putting stool samples from three consecutive bowel movements on specially treated slides for laboratory analysis. The reason for the multiple specimens is that bleeding may be intermittent. To increase the accuracy of the stool analysis, a special meat-free, high-fiber diet is advised for at least 24 hours before the first stool specimen is collected as well as for the remaining sampling period. If hidden blood is detected, it does not necessarily mean cancer, but it calls for further tests. If cancer is present, this test can detect the disease early, when it is most curable.

Question: How may I find information on quick methods of treating cancer?

ANSWERline: Information about the investigation and evaluation of claims made for new methods of cancer treatment is available from several agencies and organizations. These include the American Cancer Society, the American Medical Association, the National Cancer Institute, the U.S. Food and Drug Administration, and several State Cancer Commissions or Advisory Councils. There are also many competent and reliable cancer research centers that can provide information.

Question: I have chronic constipation. Is this a sign of cancer?

ANSWERline: Constipation has many causes and although it could reflect the presence of a cancer obstruction in the colon, the chances are that cancer is not the cause. However, any prolonged change in bowel habits such as constipation, diarrhea, blood in stool, etc., should be brought to the attention of your doctor. Should cancer be present, prompt attention may save your life.

Question: What is the cause of bladder cancer?

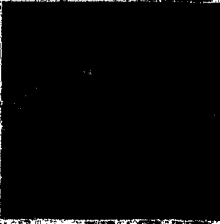

ANSWERline: Bladder cancer is a disease that is caused by a number of factors. One of the most common causes is smoking. Other factors include exposure to certain chemicals, such as those found in dyes and paints, and a diet high in fat and low in fiber. The disease is often diagnosed late, when it has advanced to a point where treatment is difficult.

Question: How can I prevent bladder cancer?

ANSWERline: While there is no sure way to prevent bladder cancer, there are steps you can take to reduce your risk. These include quitting smoking, avoiding exposure to harmful chemicals, and drinking plenty of water to keep your bladder healthy. Regular medical checkups can also help detect the disease early.

Strawberry Peanut Dip

Art-Electric Simple Dessert

As any candy lover knows, there is nothing tastier than peanut butter and chocolate. Combine these two popular flavors with fresh strawberries and you have the most delicious dessert ever created by Art-Electric. Strawberry Peanut Dip is a simple, yet sophisticated treat that is perfect for any occasion. It is easy to make and tastes even better than it looks.

For the recipe: Developed by Chef Luis, sent a stamped, self-addressed envelope for: PEANUT DIP RECIPE, ART-ELECTRIC, ADVISORY BOARD/CNC, 1133 Avenue of the Americas, New York, N.Y. 10036.

STRAWBERRY PEANUT DIP
1 1/2 cups creamy peanut butter
1/2 cup milk chocolate
1/2 cup heavy cream
14 large fresh strawberries
3 cups semi-sweet chocolate, melted

In a medium bowl, combine peanut butter, milk chocolate and whipped topping; mix well. Slice strawberries in half lengthwise. Spread peanut butter mixture on half of sliced strawberries. Top with remaining strawberry halves. Refrigerate until firm. Dip strawberries into melted semi-sweet chocolate, coating only half the berry. Refrigerate until ready to serve. Makes 14 filled strawberries.

New Jersey seeking U.S. court extension for ocean dumping

Four years after Congress decreed a ban on ocean dumping by December 31, 1981, six northern New Jersey municipalities are seeking a court decision which would allow them to continue dumping beyond that date.

The municipalities—Bergen, Passaic, and Middlesex Counties, the Joint Meeting of Essex and Union Counties, Railway Valley, and Linden-Roselle—have asked in a lawsuit filed in U.S. District Court for the District of New Jersey in Newark, that the court invalidate portions of the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's ocean dumping regulations.

Ironically, the Reagan Administration's EPA seems more sympathetic to the New Jersey plaintiffs' lawsuits than it does to the agency's own position under previous administrations, according to the National Wildlife Federation.

NWF and its affiliate, the New Jersey State Federation of Sportsmen's Clubs, have filed a friend-of-the-court brief supporting the ocean dumping regulations.

"The EPA under the Carter Administration denied the municipalities dumping permits," explained Kenneth Kamlet, attorney for the NWF. "Unfortunately, the present EPA is content to allow this sludge dumping to continue; if the plaintiffs agree to move their dump site farther offshore."

NWF filed its brief, Kamlet said, "because if we hadn't gotten involved in this lawsuit, there would be no one arguing in behalf of the ocean."

Kamlet explained that for years the New Jersey counties and cities have been dumping sludge into an area known as the New York Bight, considered to be the most degraded coastal area in the country. The sludge contains significant amounts of toxic heavy metals, organic chemicals such as PCB's, and various carcinogens, he said.

EPA has determined that the sewage dumped by these municipalities fails to meet the environmental impact criteria, measuring the toxicity of pollutants such as metals, PCB's, and oil. In sludge, established by the 1972 Marine Protection, Research, and Sanctuaries Act.

He pointed out that fish in the Bight area, which is popular among fishermen and commercial fisheries, are being affected by the polluted sludge. "Fin-rot, gill erosion, skin tumors, and chemical contamination of fish are commonplace," he said.

In their lawsuit the New Jersey communities charge that in enforcing the December 31 ban, EPA had failed to consider the need for ocean dumping and the availability of land-based alternatives. But the environmental groups' brief notes that although EPA was under no legal obligation to consider these factors, it commissioned a study of alternatives by the Interstate Sanitation Commission (ISC) before enforcing the ban. The ISC report, completed in 1975, examined alternatives to ocean dumping for New York and New Jersey metropolitan

KARATE FOR ALL—Kamie Ladner, front-left, owner and instructor of a Shotokan Karate school in Waveland, demonstrates correct technique to students at his new business located on Auder Drive off US-90 at Our Shopping Center. Classes are scheduled 8:30 to 9:30 p.m. Tuesdays and Thursdays and also Saturday mornings. Anyone six years old and above interested in the art of self defense is eligible to take classes. Plans are currently being made to start an all-women's class, Ladner said. For information, call 252-7894. (Staff photo by Brent Macey)

SCHOLARSHIP PROGRAM—American Legion Post No. 714 Waveland has provided a scholarship program for high-achieving students who wish to apply for the scholarship can pick up an application from 118 South Beach Blvd., or, Bob Barriere at his post home on Columbia Avenue from 9 to 7:30 p.m. every Thursday, Friday and Sunday evenings. Announcing the scholarship programs are, from left, Dr. Marvin White, Pearl River College president; R.K. Tasham, post financial officer; and R.E. Sutton, post scholarship chairman.

Save for the silver lining.

There's an old song that advises you to look for the silver lining. Certainly a good piece of advice. But here's some better advice: Save for the silver lining.

Save enough to line those dark clouds. It's easy. Buy U.S. Savings Bonds through the Payroll Savings Plan. On the Plan, you set aside a little each payday for Bonds. And that'll chase some gloom away, right off.

But if dark skies should appear, remember: Bonds can help you find the sunny side of life.

Take stock in America.

Learning Words Can Be Fun For Your Children!

Big Bird's Sesame Street Dictionary is a wonderful collection of words and their meanings, prepared by educators especially for children. The 8 volumes contain over 1,300 entries, plus hundreds of other related words.

Each entry is beautifully illustrated in full color. The definitions are simple and expanded by examples of how to use the word. Each volume contains 100 new words.

Throughout Jim Henson's Sesame Street Muppet Dictionary are featured fun facts, picture puzzles, tongue twisters, and Sesame Street games that will help teach your children the meaning of words.

What a fun way for family members to cover new words each day! Each volume is completely illustrated with beautiful illustrations of the words and their meanings.

There's a lot to be learned from Big Bird's Sesame Street Dictionary. It's a fun way to learn new words and their meanings. It's a fun way to learn new words and their meanings. It's a fun way to learn new words and their meanings.
